

Get Off Their Case!

Written by Benjamin "Zeus" Heide
Friday, 17 September 2004 07:49 -

If you are looking for a new case, Viperlair has a rebranded Chieftec on the bench. What separates this case from other knock-offs is the super slick paint job on the exterior. Other than that, it's a pretty standard semi-tooless 20" tower.

Head on over and take a look

to find out if this case could fit your gear.

"The front bezel is 100% plastic, and a pain to remove I might add. No air filter was present, so you'll want to dust off the interior of your PC now and then with this case. To hide any unsightly devices, the Dragon features a swing door which can be closed to hide mismatching drives. The door is also lockable to keep nosy neighbours out (or a jealous LAN gamer from powering off your PC in the middle of a match). "
