I'll break down this next story like a "choose your own adventure" book based on what category you fall into:

For VR Fans:

Good news VR fanatics, Dell has announced their $349.99 USD Visor VR system and $99 controller for that system and you'll be able to get them in time for Christmas!!!

The Dell Visor is available for pre-order today on Dell.com/Visor in the US and Dell.co.uk/visor and PC World in the UK. The Dell Visor will start shipping globally on Oct. 17, just in time for the holidays at $349.99 USD (headset) and $99.99 USD (controllers), or $449.99 USD (headset and controllers kit). It will also be available at the Microsoft Store, MicrosoftStore.com, Best Buy stores, BestBuy.com and other retailers starting in October.

The headset is sleek and stylish, with gorgeous white contours, complemented by the black handheld controllers. The flip-up visor is engineered for convenient transitions, but it's a cool sensation just raising and lowering it, like a sleek pair of Ray-Bans.

For VR non-fans:
