TechReport has a look at the latest Tablet to come from ASUS and they put the Transformer Pad 300 up against some competition and find out just how usable this Android 4.0 tablet is. This comes equipped with Tegra 3 power, and is under $400 making it a great alternative to the iPad - and many other tablets out there.

One of the nicest things about the old Transformer is its industrial design, which is attractive without remotely resembling an Apple rip-off. The Transformer Pad 300 offers a fresh look that's similarly unique and yet completely different.
