

Origin Sub-$1000 Gaming Laptop

Written by Benjamin "Zeus" Heide

Tuesday, 18 April 2017 05:25 - Last Updated Tuesday, 18 April 2017 05:29

Origin has updated their gaming PC line to include a laptop that is very a capable gaming machine that comes in just under $1000. The EON15-S packs in a GTX 1050 TI with 4GB of VRAM in addition to 32GB of DDR4 memory. Combine that with some impressive storage upgrade options and you've got yourself a winner. Its pretty light for the performance and starting prices are very attractive. As always, you can get crazy with upgrades, but out of the box it's not a bad unit for a cool $1G.

We've poured our knowledge and technical know-how into the EON15-S to ensure the best quality and high-performance. Stow the EON15-S in your backpack with a peace of mind so you can travel and game without putting unnecessary stress on your back. Go fully mobile thanks to a slim 1.05-inch thick chassis weighing 5.08 pounds, so you easily set up, play a quick game of your choice, and pack it all up to get going.

Source: OriginPC