

Amazon Echo Gets a Face

Written by Benjamin "Zeus" Heide
Monday, 26 June 2017 16:21 -

The Amazon Echo has been the standard which most virtual assistants strive to achieve, but Amazon isn't content to just set the bar - they are raising it with the Echo Show. This is the same brain but with a screen attached to a great speaker. It has a built-in camera, 8 microphones and is powered by an Intel Atom processor. While it is much more bulky than the previous Echo, this device would go well in a kitchen or high-traffic area and is useful for so much more than the original.

Source: Engadget