

Microsoft Pushes Windows 7 Out the Door

Written by Benjamin "Zeus" Heide
Wednesday, 18 January 2017 05:51 -

Microsoft really doesn't want to support multiple Operating Systems so they are pushing hard to get people onto the latest Windows 10 platform. While support for Windows 7 should extend to 2020, Microsoft is doing everything they can to get people upgraded. They are already trying to scare people that in the three years until official EOL, security needs won't be covered in Windows 7 and you should upgrade now.

If that's not enough reason to switch, the page also points out that "Windows 10 is the only version of Windows that provides the appropriate support for the latest chips from Intel, AMD and Qualcomm. In addition, many programs are already being written or developed for the newer versions of Windows";

Source: BetaNews