Surfing around this morning I saw a couple of nifty products on the web. One is the upcoming Oakley "Thump" glasses. These Oakley shades have a built in MP3/WMA/WAV player. The biggest news about these is that they don't look super lame. Take a look and see if these will be on your Christmas Wish List.

The second nifty product that I just had to laugh at was this T-shirt . I know a few people who'd love this shirt . . . myself included.
